Whether you plan to enter the private, government or public interest sector, learn the professional skills that will start your career off on a path of success.

JUDITH FINER FREEDMAN
Founder of The Balanced Worker Project will show you the tips and techniques that are especially vital in these challenging times such as etiquette for building relationships with lead attorneys/senior partners in the early stages of your career; developing a track record that sets you apart; solidifying and taking control of your work dynamics; e.g., building equity, activities during a slow period, building your skill portfolio and forging new relationships with mentors; changing your game to become a stronger, more recognized attorney; and most importantly, having a career and life in the same space.
